All entries therein shall be made in ink, and the number and name of each person to whom a ballot is given shall be entered on each of the poll-books by the clerk having charge thereof in regular succession under the proper heading, the number of such voter being placed opposite his name in the column headed "Number", but if the vote of any person whose name has thus been entered on the poll-books shall be afterwards rejected by the judges, the clerks shall thereupon draw a line through his name and number as hereinafter provided.

If, upon comparison of the signature or other identification, it is found that the applicant is entitled to vote, then the judge having charge of the application lists shall approve the voting authority card and write his initials thereon.
